In a desire to design a table that blends into a space without taking up much space, Sami Kallio created the In Between Table. A partner to his In Between Chair, the legs of the table echo the same angle as the front legs of the chair. At the same time, the table's slim silhouette and absence of ornamentation make it an ideal match for any chair – in any setting.

The In Between Table is a mix of traditional wood craftsmanship, involving compression moulding and woodturning, together with innovative veneer techniques. As such, it is an homage to Kallio's Nordic heritage and training in woodmaking, as well as his modern, Scandinavian sense of simplicity.

As part of his "Between Gaps" series, Kallio set out to explore the correlation between an object and its surrounds. Exploring the interplay between positive and negative space. "My concept started from the outside inwards," explains Kallio. "The table has no negative spaces, but it can be paired with any chair, in any timeframe in any space."

"Kallio's In Between Table is a stunning example of impeccable hand craftsmanship with natural materials, which we are proud to reflect in our stable of products," says &tradition Brand Manager Martin Kornbek Hansen. "Kallio's blending of both classic and contemporary techniques is something we truly value at &tradition. Along with his uncanny ability to design an object so simple, it exudes beauty."

Production Process

The table surface is made of solid wood planks, which are planed and glued together. The wood is carefully selected for its patterns and veining to create a homogeneous surface. The legs are made of solid wood involving a woodturning technique using a lathe to create the conical shape. Wood blocks are used to attach the legs to the table to make it more stable when mounted.
